

Train-the-Trainer Program

Preparation Starts Before the Incident.

Reinforce Your Safety Culture

DART's Train-the-Trainer program prepares select employees to deliver DART's Verbal De-escalation Training within their organization. Through annual licensing, participating organizations gain access to DART's curriculum and training materials, giving them the ability to provide ongoing training as their teams and needs change.

Train Your Team

Organizational trainers can help make de-escalation training an ongoing part of your workplace safety culture.

- Train new employees as they join your organization
- Provide refresher training as needed
- Deliver recurring de-escalation training across your team
- Reinforce DART's Verbal De-escalation Protocol
- Keep training accessible as your organization's needs change

Ongoing Program Support

DART supports participating organizations beyond the initial training, including:

- Annual licensing for continued use of DART's curriculum and materials
- Periodic instructor evaluations to help maintain instructional quality
- Curriculum updates to keep participating clients informed of changes

Why Train-the-Trainer?

A single training session can introduce new skills, but workplace safety training shouldn't end there. As employees join and workplace needs change, organizations need a practical way to keep training accessible and skills current.

Train-the-Trainer puts the capability inside your organization, helping you maintain consistent safety and de-escalation skills across your teams.
